WADE L. GRINDLE
PRINCIPAL

The Hall of Instruction

MR. WADE GRINDLE. Once a man who wished to give his son the very best advice possible, said, "Live such a life, be such a man, that if all the world were like thee, it were a paradise." Perhaps Mr. Grindle never received this particular advice, but he certainly lives up to it and he sets a mighty high standard for us to follow. Not big in stature, but tremendously big in character, ideals, and understanding, he is the perfect principal. He has taught us a lesson in tolerance, fair dealing, and sympathy and we hope to profit by this lesson so that he may always recall us with pride and pleasure.

MR. BERTRAM A. ALBRO. Every school day from September to June Mr. Albro performs a miracle by making a "dead" language very, very much alive. Long after we've forgotten that "the second syllable cannot be accented in dactylic hexameter," and that the dative of agent may be used with a passive verb, we'll remember the clever remarks with which Mr. Albro enlivens his classes. By his humorous comments, he succeeds in making his courses interesting and full of fun, as well as instructive. Truly this is a rare ability.

DR. OTIS E. ALLEY. The school intelligentsia is Dr. Alley, our eminent Scientist who has taught not only at Taunton, Methuen and Winthrop high schools, but also at B. U. Medical where he cultivated a strange passion for autopsies — his pet hobby now. Mentally equipped in every field you could mention, Dr. Alley will wax eloquently on any subject from Chemistry to the foreign situation — and do it well! His ability to make discussions interesting, entertaining, and humorous is nothing short of remarkable and his sense of humor rates with his brain power to put him on the top as far as teachers are concerned.

MISS FRANCES G. ALLISON. Tiny and charming, but well able to take care of the largest and most unmanageable class, is Miss Allison, the interesting teacher whose entertaining stories of Spain and its surroundings are only rivalled by her vast knowledge of the Romance languages. Well informed on many subjects, always willing to help, advise or be a friend to a student, possessing more than a little experience and ability, and interesting in everything, and interesting to be with — that's Miss Allison.

MISS MARION BAILEY. Charming, witty, youthful, and helpful, is Miss Bailey, the exuberant teacher who drives to Winchester from Egypt, Mass. everyday, who wears such smooth knitted clothes, who has such superior dramatic prowess, and who has the knack of always saying the right thing at the right time. Miss Bailey has not only made herself the idol of the Freshies whom she teaches, and become close friends of the students whom she meets in connection with our talented histrionic society, but she's tops with everyone in Winchester High School.

MR. EDWARD BARTLETT. The bantering, blushing, bashful boy from Beverly,— “Bart!” The bookkeeping, blithe, Beau Brummel — still “Bart!” But, the helpful friend, the extraordinary sports coach, and the excellent teacher — Mr. Bartlett. Running stiff competition with the newcomer, Mr. Meinke, for the title of the school's “Bachelor-Romeo,” Bart has been holding his own pretty well, for he's still the ultra-popular professor, a friend of the boys, a flirt with the girls.

MISS RUTH BENNETT. The tall, dark'n'handsome lady who graces the first floor corridors before school is none other than Miss Bennett. Teaching typewriting, she is indispensable to the Commercial department and as a personality she is indispensable to Winchester High School. However, her popularity and success impress her little and she still remains a modest and bashful young lady (you should see her blush).

MISS HELEN BRONSON. Quiet, efficient, pretty — this is the superb teacher who successfully heads the Commercial Department — Miss Bronson. She has a great responsibility resting on her shoulders, but she always comes through with jobs for her students if it is humanly possible. This charming lady's happy faculty of generously doing anything and everything has made her numerous friends among the faculty, and her poised sweet personality will make her hard to forget.

MR. BUTTERS, our superb mathematician, is one faculty member who has an excellent idea of what it takes to make students enjoy themselves anywhere from the midst of the densest original (believe it or not) to the annual Junior-Senior prom. This learned teacher with the exceptional sense of humor claims that his pet hobby is golf, but those of us who have seen his easy, graceful performance on a tennis court wonder. Although he tries to pass himself off to the Sophs and other students, as a stern, strict professor, he can't fool us — he's one swell guy.

MISS GERTRUDE CARMICHAEL. The guardian angel of the Freshies and a helpful friend to the rest of the student body is Miss Carmichael, the dark, attractive lady who resides in the Wadleigh building. Besides making two difficult subjects easy and interesting to her pupils, Miss Carmichael takes time out for humor, entertainment, and general fun — it is teachers like her who make “school days” more than days of study.

MISS BETH CLARK. Another charmante et belle French teacher is Miss Clark, the lovely-voiced young lady who wears such pretty clothes, and who instructs the Freshmen in the fundamentals of English and French. She seems a bit distant to the casual observer but those who know her know also that she has a wonderful disposition, a fine sense of humor, and is a thoroughly charming person.

MRS. ESTELLE COFFIN in dashes — a good teacher — lots of fun — interesting and humorous — quiet and poised — possessing a beautiful complexion and pretty brown eyes — easy to get along with and easy to please — in short, perfect Freshman instructor, and one whom the lower classmen idolize.

MR. F. MEREDITH COOPER. Last year New Haven gave us that tall, manly economist, that beau brummel, that capable, efficient gentleman plus — Mr. Cooper. He is the guiding spirit who rules the roost in room 17, and he has ably directed the Problems of Democracy and European History classes through a difficult year. To you, Mr. Cooper, we extend our thanks and wish you many years of success.

MR. COTTON, you're popular! There's no getting away from it — and you always will be because of your swell personality, your knack of doing everything well, your wish to do it all for the other fellow, and your fairness which is only surpassed by your brains and ability. Maine lost one grand fisherman and hunter when you came to us; W. H. S. lost a great teacher when the Problems Classes no longer heard those fine discussions — but then we gained our first and best guidance director! All the losing in the world is worth finding someone like you!

MR. ALLAN COX, our crackerjack teacher who drills Algebra into the somewhat dazed brains of the Freshmen, is Winchester High's claim to extensive knowledge combined with a pleasing personality. Mr. Cox, although one would never suspect it until one saw a merry eye twinkling behind those forbidding glasses, has a super sense of humor and understands students from A to Z. To quote one of the first classmen: "All in all, he's a darned nice fellow."

MR. FREDERIC DELZELL. "Dapper" Delzell is the attractive, suave young man who has moulded the orchestra into an institution at Winchester since his arrival at school two years ago. "The man with the baton" has become popular, not only with his musicians, but also with every student and faculty member who comes in contact with him, and the success of the assembly which he gives every year is due largely to his pleasing personality.

MR. SAMUEL M. GRAVES. Popularity, personality, pleasantness, and politics — mix equal portions of these elements together and add a grand sense of humor and superb fairness. Pour mixture into a pan greased with superior knowledge of everything from Ancient History to the present day situation and heat well. The result will be Mr. Graves — one of the best, better than the rest.

MISS VERNE HALL. A lovely complexion, an attractive smile, and a sweet disposition are the main characteristics of this pretty lady with the pretty name. Miss Hall has only been with us for three years, yet already has established herself as an excellent teacher of both French and History, as a friend to any deserving student and as a good sport who makes school work interesting as school work can be.

MISS MARGARET HANNON. Last year she was Peggy, the friend in need to everyone in school who wanted someone's homework to copy, and this year she's Miss Hannon, still a friend to everyone, but now exalted to the post of Secretary in the office. Peggy has done a grand job helping Miss Lawson this year and her capability, cheerfulness, and general attractiveness makes her a pleasant sight to see upon entering the office.

MR. RAYMOND HAYWARD. Witty? Yes! Clever? But definitely! Learned? Uh-huh! Interesting? Mais oui! In short, he's terrific, sensational, colossal, and then some. This human dynamo not only teaches English to numerous Sophs and Seniors, but also finds time to shine in Ping-Pong and billiards, guide the A. A. with an unfaltering hand, supervise the Handbook production, and write numerous jingles and gags for the Vaudeville Show and Banquet. In short, there is no organization in school which doesn't count on his support, any faculty member who fails to respect his ability and skill, or any student who doesn't think he's grand.

MISS MARY HUDELSON. "Way out west where men are men and women are very sweet" is the home of our dashing young business teacher, Miss Hudelson, who hails from Kansas. This attractive woman was the human dynamo who pushed the sales of the Recorder up to undreamed of heights, and it was her personality alone that cajoled advertisers into parting with well-hoarded money. In short, we welcome to Winchester a peppy newcomer — a great advocate of mountain climbing and one swell person.

MR. ROBERT M. KEENEY. Strength of character, poise, diplomaey, and humor mark Mr. Keeney as a swell fellow. He is noted for being the perfect host, but insists on his easy chair and cigar after doing the odd jobs in and around his abode.

However, when it comes to giving out A's he is very shy as many of his students already know. Nevertheless we all think "no change" Keeney is a swell fellow, so here is a toast to Jake Keeney, the pillar of wisdom and strength in the Winchester High School.

MISS INEZ KELLER. Only those who are artistically inclined have come in close contact with Miss Keller, who directs the school in Arts and Crafts. This attractive teacher is unusually capable and more than a little versed in the subject which she instructs. Because her periods are informal and progressive, many students elect Arts and Crafts and none of them are sorry, for Miss Keller is not only kind and helpful but also a good friend to have.

MISS HAZEL KINGSLEY. The competent instructor who presides in the Art room, Miss Kingsley, is not only instructor to the High School geniuses, but also heads the Art department of all Winchester schools. So busy is she with her students that we rarely see any of her work, but rumors have it that her water-coloring is superb. Pleasing, interesting and able — Miss Kingsley is all right.

MISS ETHEL KNOWLTON. A flash of white teeth, a twinkle in her eye, a torrent of French that we can't understand,— clothes tres chic, charm and all that! We mean you, Miss Knowlton. Mademoiselle is the management behind the annual classplay, and the Seniors are enabled to have their prom and class night activities only because of her capable and enthusiastic work. Altogether happy, cheerful, friendly and gay — in short, an ideal "pal," Miss Knowlton is, to use the vernacular, a peach!

MR. GEORGE LAUER. Not only the maker of teams but also a moulder of men is Coach Lauer, the good-looking, muscular fellow who is so largely responsible for Winchester's fine athletic squads and for the fine spirit displayed in the past two years. A polished and humorous assembly speaker, (for further information see J. D. Stevens), and a man greatly interested in a student's problems, besides being one of the main factors in the success of A. A. activities, Mr. Lauer has become indispensable to W. H. S.

MISS AMY LAWSON. When one thinks of the office one thinks of Miss Lawson, and when one thinks of Miss Lawson, one has a vision of a pretty, well-dressed girl who has charm all her own and a lovely personality. Extremely proficient in her difficult work of managing the office, listening to students tales of woe, and numerous other jobs all at once, Miss Lawson is our idea of the perfect young lady.

MR. OTIS LEARY. Most of Mr. Leary's spare time is spent in the Junior High where his work necessarily keeps him busy, yet he is liked and respected by every member of the High School — especially the boys who have become proficient in woodworking and mechanical drawing under his skilled direction. There is only one way to describe Mr. Leary — a good sport — when that is said, all is said.

MISS MARY MACKEDON. "Why take life seriously? You never get out of it alive" asks this trim, charming, and frightfully popular professor with the twinkling eyes and infectious giggle, who makes our French class the most interesting and entertaining period of the day. Miss Mackedon's attraction extends outside of school to such an extent that students become close friends of hers after graduation, and there is hardly a fellow in school now who doesn't know her telephone number. To summarize her we might call her an excellent teacher, a strict but not too strict "taisez-vous" and the possessor of the plus nicest personality in Winchester.

MR. KENNETH MEINKE. The underclassmen say he's simply wonderful, the actors who have met him in connection with the play think he's superb, and the athletes who have come in contact with his dynamic personality in Ping-Pong pronounce him "o.k." — So we gather he's slightly super-colossal. Mr. Meinke came to us this year and already has made a name for himself by leading the annual play to a successful finish, by starting a table tennis club and simply by making Latin (of all things) particularly interesting to his students. To be brief, all we can say is that we wish he'd come a little sooner.

MISS GLADYS E. NIVEN. The supreme guiding hand behind the excellent lunches which are served to us every day, and the capable brain which keeps the cafeteria running smoothly, makes personality classes so vitally interesting, both belong to the one, the only, the original Miss Niven. This member of the faculty has a wonderfully even disposition, always having a ready smile and bright word for everyone, and ever possessing some new bit of interesting information to transmit to her eager class.

MISS VIRGINIA R. OWEN. Undoubtedly the most popular room in the school is in the library, and surely the ideal teacher to fit into this room is Miss Owen. Miss Owen of the sunny disposition, the friendly and helpful nature, and the ability, capability, and dependability which make up a good teacher. This pleasant librarian possesses bounteous knowledge both of books and of people, and her personality which is unsurpassed has made her popular with the faculty and students alike.

MISS EVA PALMER is a person who always has a friendly greeting for everyone. It is a real pleasure to come back to school after being sick, for you are always met with kindness and sympathy when she gives you your admittance slip. Her classes are run in an informal and friendly way and in math period not math only is taught but English, geography, science, history, Greek, and Latin. When you have once been in her class, you are not forgotten afterward, but become one of her hosts of friends to be held in a special place in her heart. Besides her teaching she takes care of the attendance, keeps the records in the office, and is dean of the girls. When Winchester High loses Miss Palmer, it will lose more than ever can be replaced.

MISS FLORENCE A. PARKER. The power behind the Senior Class activities, the modest lady with the grand sense of humor, and the possessor of a personality which no student can resist or withstand — that's how we think of Miss Parker. But when we see her we also think of her as one teacher who is absolutely fair and impartial to all, who makes her classes live with interest and entertainment, and who is liked by every student for the pure and simple reason that we know she is our friend.

MISS LENNA PEABODY. Behold! the most universally liked and admired lady in school and the model of what the ideal teacher should be! Miss Peabody, take a bow! Limitless patience combined with a charming personality, a great sense of fairness, mixed with willingness to always give a student benefit of the doubt, and an extensive knowledge of Science in every form are her main characteristics; however, she is also noted for a lovely speaking and singing voice, rare culinary talent (the class of '36 discovered her prize "Shrimp-a-la-king") and her extraordinary sense of humor.

MISS MARIAN PROCTOR, of the slim, trim figure, the pretty blue eyes, the smoothie clothes, and the generally "school-girlish" appearance, is Winchester's greatest and most indefatigable ski enthusiast,— broken bones mean nothing to her when winter comes and the long white trails of N. H. beckon enticingly. In school she is strict only when necessary, always patient — even with the authors of the world's most undecipherable shorthand, and ever ready to give a student a "break" — to be brief, we won't forget our tiny Red Cross advisor soon.

MRS. ELLA STACY. The well-dressed lady with the flashing black eyes, the playful disposition and the bountiful knowledge of History is none other than Mrs. Stacy the flirtatious friend of every member of the graduating class. Our Prom and the Thrift Association both have become prominent under her capable hands for not only is she an energetic worker, but she also makes every enterprise interesting and "fun" with her merry sense of humor and deep understanding of students. She's a teacher who is a teacher!

MR. JOHN D. STEVENS. Suave, debonair, sophisticated and cool, the staunch advocate of progressive English courses, and increasingly peppy athletics — the cultivated, cultured, well-groomed gentleman from Vermont — the blushing bridegroom of the current year — here's Mr. Stevens (J. D. to you!). This young man is a gent of superlatives, for he walks away with the prize not only for being the most original teacher, and having the most hilarious classes, but also is termed by Juniors leaving his course as the "best guy" in the school.

MR. J. ALBERT WILSON. Dapper and debonair, Mr. Wilson is the calm conductor of our choristers and the super-superb singer of songs in Winchester High School. He is witty and intelligent, but more than that, he is a good friend to all the students and he will be remembered as such after we graduate. As every other class has, we thank Mr. Wilson for all he has done for us.

MISS ROSAMOND YOUNG. Since graduating from Bouve, our pretty athletics coach has been leading members of the male sex a merry chase all over the map, but at last (alas!) an alert young man has caught up with her, and she is leaving Winchester High School to "marry and settle down." Miss Young entered school with our class and in four years has not only developed outstanding championship teams but also has brought a fine sense of sportsmanship to all our squads. Her petite figure and winning personality together with her peppy talks of skiing conditions in N. H. will be missed by everyone next year.

Romeo, wherefore art thou, Romeo? Here I am Julie, every blond inch of me, effervescing with rhythmic dancing ability, burning with fiery temper, possessing a great attraction for females and flaunting a sophisticated "line." Beware! "ANNE"

EARLE EDWIN ANDREWS, JR.

"SLUG" "ANDY"

Six feet and one inch of dark good looks, quiet masculinity, and rare intelligence, make up Earle, the super-sophisticated senior, who practically deserted Winchester this year in favor of neighboring West Medford. "Andy" possesses a keen sense of humor, and an appealing personality, and the times that he muffs an answer in class are infrequent. Tech definitely gets the best of the bargain.

A lunatic, a lover, and a poet, that's Charlie, the mad genius of the class of '39. Butch is proficient in many things, outstanding among them being English (see J. Keeney), History (see Mrs. Stacey), Ping-Pong (see Dave Riley)' and driving (see John Williams), with a smattering of bridge mixed in. You believe in variety and a' that — is that right, Julius?

PHILIP BROOKS BARKSDALE

"PHIL" "BARKY"

Here is an unfathomable man. Quiet and unassuming yet possessing some of the best grey matter (brains to you) in the school, "Phil" is the strong and silent type — until some hot swing music sets his feet a "dancin'." With Reading's female populace backing him we know that this one of the famous Barksdale brothers will go places. We're with you "Barky."

Born in Winchester, Mass., November 7, 1921.

FLORENCE JUNE BARRON

"FLOSSY"

Who's the Ginger Rogers on the floor? Why, that's Flossie Barron, of course, doing her stuff along the jitterbug line — she make's an attractive picture, doesn't she? Besides that, she's awfully easy to get along with, and fits evcellently into her proper settings of either a sunny beach or a smooth skating rink. In short, she's all right.

Born April 1, 1921.

Hobbies: Swimming, Dancing, Skating, Tennis.

Scholastic Intentions: Work.

Ambition: To travel.

Height: 5 feet 3 inches; Weight: 117 pounds.

CHARLES S. BARRY, JR.

"CHARLIE-A-BUR"

Charlie is unique! There's no doubt about it! He's very intelligent but is admittedly too lazy to bother to use his brains; he's proficient in many sports but is too bashful to toot his own horn; and he dates up some of our best-looking girls but we swear that he'd join the foreign legion before he kept the engagements. His ambition? He's just the type to fulfill it.

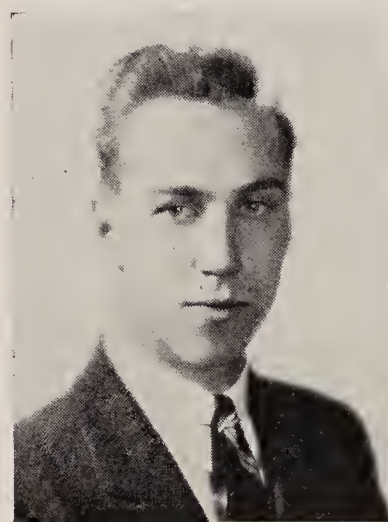

Born in Boston, Mass., November 14, 1920.

Hobbies: Skiing, Swimming, Tennis, All Sports.

Activities: Chorus; A. A.

Ambition: To own a night club.

Height: 5 feet 7 1-2 inches; Weight: 130 pounds.

DAVID ELLS BARTHOLOMEW

"DAVE" "BART"

During the week Dave may be found hounding the eight ball, but over the week-end we hear that his time is spent either entertaining the fairer sex or else exercising his talents on model airplanes. Bart is perfectly at home in the gym, study hall or office and he spends a lot of time in all three.

Born in Wollaston, Mass., December 18, 1921.

Hobby: Model Airplanes.

Scholastic Intentions: Mass. Nautical School.

Activities: Chorus '37, '38, '39.

Ambition: To have my own amateur radio station.

Height: 5 feet 10 inches; Weight: 151 pounds.

CONSTANCE BOND

"CONNIE" "BOND"

Smoothness, slenderness, and sophistication — these three words best describe Connie. Seldom do we find among the fairer species one so capable, attractive and firm as is "Bond the beauty." On mild days her pet diversion is cruising on her father's boat in Marblehead Harbor, but on the winter weekends she's off to the mountains for some super-skillful skiing. Among her accomplishments is acting,— she really goes to town behind the foot-lights!

Height: 5 feet 7 inches; Weight: 117 pounds.

LEVON KRIKOR BOODAKIAN

"FAT" "LEO"

Leo is a quiet enough fellow but don't be deceived — he knows all the answers. He is steady, industrious, and a student that it does one good to know. Somehow Levon impresses us as a future business man and a successful one at that and he possesses artistic talent that is nothing short of marvelous.

Born in Boston, Mass., July 1, 1923.

Hobbies: Stamp Collecting, Drawing.

Activities: Chorus.

Ambition: To be a success.

Weight: 179 pounds.

THOMAS DOWNING BOWLER

"DOWNEY"

Happy (even slightly slap-happy), friendly, and with a terrific sense of humor is Downey, the Bowler baby, who can be found any time during the summer either on or under the water at the boat club carrying out the old family faculty for being the life of the party. Far from being sleepy, Downey is exceptionally wide awake and nothing gets by him — blondes take notice!

Born in Little Rock, Ark., November 23, 1921.

Hobbies: Sailing, Sleeping.

Scholastic Intentions: P. G. and Northeastern.

Ambition: To graduate from college before going to war.

Weight: 170 pounds.

BARBARA RUTH BRAGDON

"BARBIE" "BABS"

If you were going to picture an ideal young lady, say one with curly brown hair and pretty eyes, a sincere and conscientious one, who still had a sense of humor and a merry smile, you'd probably be picturing Barbara Bragdon. But don't leave her ambition out of the picture, a lady with a successful kindergarten on her hands is a little more of a problem to deal with.

Born in Boston, Mass., January 31, 1920.

Hobbies: Walking, Tennis, Writing.

Scholastic Intentions: Wheelock.

Ambition: Have a private kindergarten of my own.

Height: 5 feet 2 inches; Weight: 116 pounds.

EMERSON W. BROOKS, JR.

"EM"

Here is the suave lady-killer who believes there is safety in numbers if the number is one. Entirely a man of moods, Em is alternately the brightest, most airy, blithesome spirit in the school or the most dejected, gloomy individual who walks the corridors. Taking life as seriously as he does, and with his ability, he is more than likely to go far.

Born in New York City, February 12, 1921.

Hobbies: Sailing, Tennis, Dancing, Day-dreaming,

Listening to Swing Records.

Scholastic Intentions: University of Maryland.

Activities: Variety is the spice of life.

Ambition: To succeed in whatever I do.

Height: 5 feet 11 inches; Weight: 152 pounds.

GEORGE BUDD, JR.

"JUDD" "BUD"

A mental man of massive intellect George spends most of his time trying to convince the teachers of his ability. However, Mr. Keeney is very appreciative of Judd's studious powers and provides him with a great deal of exercise during class. George never neglects the social side of life, to any extent, being rather active in this respect from all reports. All in all he is an all-around good fellow and he usually finishes what he starts — well.

Born in Lowell, Mass., June 17, 1922.

Hobbies: Benny Goodman's Records, Dancing, Out-board Motor Boat Racing.

Scholastic Intentions: Mass. Nautical School.

Activities: Chorus '36, '37, '38; Orchestra '36, '37, '38; Dramatic Society '36, '37.

Ambition: To buy Clem's car.

Height: 5 feet 8 inches; Weight: 138 pounds.

RICHARD MILWARD BUGBEE

"DICK"

Sunny hair and sunny disposition are primary characteristics of Dick, who, besides being good-natured and helpful, is one of Winchester's outstanding tennis players. Much of his spare time is spent either practicing his swing on a certain "fife" or else carrying on heated arguments in J. Keeney's English class. A good student, "Bugs" is headed for Dartmouth where, among other things, he hopes to improve his skiing prowess.

Born in Boston, Mass., June 13, 1922

Hobbies: Tennis, Skiing, Swimming.

Scholastic Intentions: Dartmouth.

Activities: Varsity Tennis '37, '38, '39; Ping-Pong Club '36, '39; Traffic Squad '38, '39; Chairman, Class Play Committee '39; A. A. '36, '37, '38, '39; Red Cross '36; Thrift Club '37; Handbook and Recorder Staffs '39.

Ambition: To become a champion tiddle-wink player.

Height: 5 feet 11 inches; Weight: 165 pounds.

DAVID WOOD BURNHAM

"SLUG" "DAVE" "COLONEL"

They say the Colonel can talk for any length of time on any subject without preparation. But this, seriously, is an outgrowth of his overwhelming interest in everything, the fair sex included. In fact, Dave's biggest bugaboo is the fear of being "a jack of all trades, but master of none." Every day finds some new line of endeavor as "tops." At the rate he's going, his best bet is becoming a professional screwball.

Born in Winchester, Mass., June 3, 1922.

Hobbies: Swimming, LaCrosse, Polo, Jai-Alai, Yachting, Flying, World Cruising, Flower Culture, Wrestling, Jiu-jitsu, Fox Hunting, Research in Greek, Painting, Arranging Symphony Orchestrations.

Activities: Class Play '39; Traffic '38, '39; Vaudeville '38, '39; Red Cross '38; Dramatic Society '36; Science Club '39; French Club '39; Year Book '39; Handbook '38; Class Prom '39.

Ambition: To do one of several things.

Height: 5 feet 8 inches; Weight: 153 pounds.

HELEN AVERY BUTLER

"HELEN A"

As cool as cucumbers is this calm, sophisticated miss, yet on occasions she has been known to loosen up and be "just plain fun." We like both Helens. Tres easy to look at, very pleasing to talk to, and delightful to know, Helen is one of the ultra-charming females of whom our class is so proud. "A maiden modest yet self-possessed, youthful and beautiful, nattily dressed."

Born in Winchester, Mass., August 1, 1921.

Hobbies: Swimming, Sailing, Riding.

Scholastic Intentions: Bradford Junior College.

To Red the following verse has a lot of meaning:

Winchester girls are pretty,
Stoneham girls are smart.
But it always takes a Woburn girl
To break a fellow's heart.

Red hair often signifies a bad temper, but to quote Mr. Carroll, "that is a silly superstition," and all of us who know Red will agree with him. Friendly, easy to get along with, and a good talker — he's the tops.

She's as sweet as she is pretty and as unconceited as she is popular and she's probably the only person in school who is as well-liked by girls as she is by boys. Mr. J. J. C. F. is the Jekyll and Hyde man of Winchester High; in the daytime we find him gracing the corridors and study halls of our beloved building or else playing an excellent game of baseball on Manchester field — that's a quiet, conscientious Joe. But at night his heart belongs to Stoneham and he's transformed into a gay, irrepressible lady-killer — that's an entirely different Joe. In either respect, he's tops with us.

A., Class Orator, and to various other offices. "Pres" is one of our most popular boys and his ability to perform either on a basketball court or on Eaton Court is remarkable, to say the least. Leo of the dual personality is the school's most ardent advocate of escalators. His shyness and modesty just don't coincide with his desire to own a band and his dancing ability. Leo is a jitterbug and a flirt, but decidedly not a French student. With a smile as enchanting as the Pied Piper's music, and the definite Tucci charm, he is certainly personified in the saying, "To know him is to like him."

LOUISE MARDEN WILD

"WEEZIE"

The "best dated" package in school and the toast of colleges and prep schools from coast to coast is Weezie, the craziest, most popular female to hit Winchester this year. Louise isn't really wild but can be serious and dependable on occasion, and she isn't all frivolity for she plays a mean game of basketball and skis like a professional. She's our selection for Miss Winchester High School.

JOHN GIBSON WILLIAMS

"JOHNNY"

One of the present Fifield-minded Seniors is Johnny, the wearer of ultra-flashy ties and the possessor of skill extraordinary in Ping-Pong and bowling. Young Mr. Williams' knowledge of History isn't as extensive as it could be — but he tries hard — and when he flashes his rare smile at Mrs. Stacy, could she resist him? Johnny has been getting a good dose of law recently — but they say he can take it!

DORIS EVERSON WITHROW

Doris can certainly enter into competition for the "Floyd Gibbons" of the class of 1939, and yet we enjoy every bit of her charming prattle, which is both interesting and entertaining. A conscientious worker, with a personality pleasing to all, she is sure to succeed wherever she goes and draw to her many true and faithful friends, as she already has done in high school and Easthampton.

Whitey is one square fellow all-around and a staunch advocate of the Chevrolet. Having the general appearance of being footloose and fancy free (?), White is serious one moment and happy the next, but always amusing and the best of company. A distinction which is going to make it hard for us to forget him, is his long, wavy hair which is as a rule, unruly.

DOROTHY ELIZABETH WYMAN

"DOT" "DOTTY"

Wy man! You'll rival any Charles of the Ritz when you slap a come around to perfect milady's coiffure. The customer's always right, Dotty and your ability to get along with people, skill in doing things well, and your secret of knowing what the well-groomed woman should possess all help to make you a wonderful proprietor of Wyman's Woman's Wonder Shoppe.

KATHERINE WYMAN

"KAY"

I am small and dainty, in a futile sort of way, but for all my tininess I'm indispensable to W.H.S. It is on my shoulders that the burden of revising the Handbook rests; too, as a student. I have been the best. Practically every senior enterprise has seen me connected with it in some manner, and my interest in sports (dating from a certain time) has been inspiring to loyal Winchester rooters.

BARBARA GRACE DAWE

"BARBIE"

98 pounds within the radius of 5 feet 1 inch is Dawe, the vivacious, flirtatious, curvacious Senior who has cut many a caper around school during the past two years. Barbie has the local boys all tied up in knots, but the knottiest is Drewson, the man of her hour. Barb has talent, she has ability, and personality — she'll get there.

Ambition: Aeronautics Engineer.

Height: 5 feet 4 inches; Weight: 127 pounds.

CHARLES ROBERT JOYCE

"CHARLIE"

Charlie is one of these fellows who just naturally comes by a gift of gab — he can sling it on any subject at any time without any trouble at all. He can be seen almost any time hustling around Filene's or hot on the trail of Moraine, and because he is always doing something we know that he'll go places.

History of the Class of 1939

Josephus and Josephine Class of Thirty-nine were born, healthy twins, on September 7, 1935. Now at four, they have grown into a sophisticated lady and gentleman, who are about to branch out into bigger and better things.

This year, as Seniors, Joe and Josey practically dominated the scholarship, sports, and other activities, which go to make up a high school.

To begin with, they chose Richard McCormack, John McPartlin, Phyllis LeDuc, and Hartlyn Horie as guardians for the year. Then, to get off with a flying start, they were instrumental in the school's having championship football and field hockey teams captained by Doug Graham and Myrtle Goodhue. Josey, just to emphasize the fact that she was starting the year right, made her team undefeated, untied, and unscored upon. As a successful football season means money, they elected capable John O'Neil to head the Athletic Association.

Continuing along this line, Joe played on the school basketball team, which, while not a championship team, did creditably well under the management of high scorer, Carl Johnson.

In the spring, the twins really got busy with baseball, track and tennis. With three such men as Ed Kenney, Sam Pilkington, and Doug Graham to help him with these teams, Joe couldn't help but make them good ones. The baseball team, especially, got a good start with five straight victories, while the tennis team was not far behind with four out of five.

Josey meanwhile was holding up her half with the assistance of Lois Ladd, by having an undefeated tennis team.

In many other ways this was an average year. However, Joe and Josey put on a successful prom, a successful Class Play, and a successful Vau-devil Show. They trained few geniuses but few morons too. However, the main thing is that they had a good time. Both Joe and Josey agree that this year was by far the best and happiest of all in High School.

The twins finished up the year by dedicating the yearbook to Miss Palmer, who is retiring at the end of the year. They stand together in complimenting her on a wonderful record, and want her to know how sincerely sorry they are that she has to leave.

So ends the first chapter in the lives of these two. They are about to go their own ways, and I for one hope that they may continue to be in contact with each other for many years.

Class Prophecy

Scene:— Winchester World's Fair in 1950.

Well, here we are, ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience, at the Winchester World's Fair of 1950. The opening day crowds are flocking in and let me tell you, folks, we've got a crowd here that makes the other fairs we've had in this country look like auctions. This is your announcer, David Burnham, broadcasting over a coast to coast hookup on Station WHS.

There seems to be quite a crowd gathering over there in the street — well, if it isn't "Butch" Bacon, our famous radical, wearing a placard stating "This Fair Unfair To Organized Fairs." Sounds pretty crazy to me, what do you think? Among the staunch supporters surrounding him are Robert Glendon, Allen Abbot, John Della Svetura and Joseph Ficociello who are literally fighting for their cause. Keeping the crowd back with great difficulty are Carl Johnson, John MacPartlin, and Donald Gray who are wearing their new blue uniforms with much pride. Oh, look, there is Louise Wild with her famous ski pro husband, Otto Lang.

Well, here we are at the first exhibit, folks. It's the Horse Show and what a display of fine horses and pretty girls. Frances Randall is riding off with all the blue ribbons as well as all available men. Among the other contestants are Betty Mitchell, Priscilla Howard, and Edith Derby, who are all riding horses from the famous Miriam Nash stables.

There is a lovely fashion show being presented over there — Barbara Mortenson, Ruth Manning, Lillian Speedie, and Phyllis LeDuc are more than doing justice to the beautiful gowns as they promenade to the sweet music offered by Leo Tucci on the piano.

Well, well, if it isn't the famous actress, Margaret Hall, with her equally well-known director husband, John Kishler. Everyone is staring up at the stunt flyers now — I can barely see them from here, but I rather suspect that Phyllis Palson and Helen Butler are holding their own up there — namely, Dick Swanson and Phil Cabot. I hope they land safely, because Phil is director of the men's gym exhibit which features Jimmy Gustin with Charlie Carr, Downing Bowler, Tony Melargni, and Bert and John Hopkins. Performing opposite them is the girls' gym team — it seems that women have muscles nowadays, too. Led by Jean Clement and Myrtle Goodhue, they include Chris Flaherty, Ruth Ann Merrow, Ruth Olmstead, and Laura Riley.

Weaving a pretty uncertain line through the crowd is Vincent Errico's Latin Escort Service — namely, Dominic Buzzota, Angelo Caputo, Henry Colucci, Antonio Rosa, and Libonio Gerardi hopefully followed by Marjorie Manzie, Aleda Carlson, Florence Barron, and Eleanor Collins.

The picturesque ski exhibit is the next attraction. Ruth Coulson, Connie Bond, Jeanne Howard, and Barbara Moulton manage to look extremely attractive as they glide over the new artificial snow invented by Joseph Ciarcia, who is present, accompanied by Bill Abbott who invented the Permanent-Tan Sun Lamp which is very well demonstrated by Jean Plass and Virginia Chapin.

Over there in the crowd I can see Priscilla Howard who has very successfully replaced Walter Winchell as gossip-spreader for Winchester. That scintillating swinger of swing, Bill Partridge, is going to town in a big way with Whitey Wright banging away on the drums; rhythm and melody being provided by Spencer Cary on the trumpet, the maestro himself is at the piano and Rex Crandall on the violin. Our attention is diverted to an informal jitterbug contest going on over there with Philip Barksdale and Dorothy Griffith cutting a rug. Their new dance called "The Lambeth Apple" was originated by Mary McGrath and Richy McCormack in a sudden fit of musical genius. The feminine appeal is brought on by a chours of girls who are led by Suzanne Petrosky and include Esther Colucci, Mary Mollea, Virginia Moran, Margaret Moynahan, Doris Powers, and Mary Sawdy.

Looking on quietly are those two well known peace advocates Katherine Wyman and David Riley — the dreams of a modern Utopia shining in their eyes. Standing behind them are Idella Tapley, the new President of Smith and her noted Professors Jane Grimes, Dorothy Klyce, Berniee Tabor, and William Fogg. And also I can see those two eminent authors, Mildred Ghirardini and Polly Kenton, who together won the Nobel Prize for their book, "Solving the Problems of the Youth of Today."

Well, well, if it isn't our representative of Newport society, Natalie "Pathetic" White, who has at long last found love and incidentally a million.

By the tenseness in the air I judge that the fight of the day is getting underway. "Ladeez and gentlemin" — in this corner we have Emerson "Slugg-ger" Brooks and in that corner Russell "Kid Esquire" Joy. It is rumored that this is a grudge fight over the co-deans of Andover, Betty and Mardi Dickson.

Wading through the rye are those two romantic lifesavers, Frannie Murray and Mecca Millyan with a string of bathing beauties including Barbara Dawe, Ethel Kerrigan, Mary Kelley, and Barbara Bragdon hanging on behind.

In the tennis tournament going on over there I can see those two famous tennis stars, Lois Ladd and Richard Bugbee. In private life they're Mr. and Mrs., you know.

It is said that the big attraction of the day will be a league baseball game. Eddie Kenny, the captain of the favorite team causes much palpitation in the hearts of the feminine fans. Alfred (what a Curve) DeMinico is on the mound with Charlie Gainey in the box taking in all those curves. Leonard Rallo is on first base and Ray Murdock is "picking daisies" ready to catch Richy "Flash" McCormack's fly. Charles Barry is comfortably reclining on second base and Margaret McNally is on "home" plate waiting for Don Thomann to make a spectacular score from third.

In a small booth in an obscure alley those sleight of hand magicians, Edward Welch and David Bartholomew are trying to attract the attention of a few stragglers, namely, Earle Andrews, David Harris, Fred Donahue, and John Williams who seem much more interested in the style show presented by those gorgeous brunettes Margaret Mary McDonald, Doris Withrow, Dorothy Connors, and Florence Hamilton.

Staring wide-eyed up through the sea of legs surrounding them are five little girls who are kept together by a long rope — but I can't see who's on the other end. Well, if it isn't "Bib" Foley — you never can tell what will happen in this world, can you Junie?

George Hebb is left weak by the dazzling opening of his night club. It is well known that his interior decorator was none other than the talented Suzanne Gleason. The entertainment is furished by John Gaffney, Irish Tenor, and Marcia Collins, pianist. Speakers at the opening were columnist Grace Croughwell and the All-American football coach, Douglas Graham. Barbara Hayden falls into the role of hostess very well and she is ably assisted by Mary Haskell and Lillian Pugin.

Sailing around the mill pond of our mighty Aberjona is Phil Drew's schooner, "The Philanthropist," with the wind filling the sails snppled by Jean Plass and Russell Joy. George Budd, who is scrambling up the mast, looks very picturesque in his little white sailor suit and — whoops — man overboard — George is soused — I mean doused again.

Philip Quinn, the noted Hollywood producer is smoking his perpetual cigar at the rail. Standing by his side is Shirley-Ann (Reynolds) his latest find and the rage of Hollywood at the present.

If any tender souls we have offended, think of the other prophecies, and be thankful.

SAM PILKINGTON,
ANNE PHIPPS

The Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1939

BE IT REMEMBERED that we, the members of the class of 1939, being possessed of countless worthy attributes which it would be a sacrilege selfishly to retain, do hereby apportion these aforementioned characteristics among our less fortunate schoolmates. This is done with the hope that in time to come these donations may produce classes as sterling as this great class of 1939. Therefore, to our lowly schoolmates, the juniors, the sophomores, and the freshmen do we bequeath as follows:

I, Hartlyn Horie, bequeath my well known five o'clock shadow to Frank Marabella who also looks like Fu Manchu on a dark night.

As an outstanding athlete, I, Myrtle Goodhue, will my place in the sport-light to Rita Collins — keep up our good work.

To Steve Holmes and Lee Clark do we, Doug Graham and "Mac" McGrath, leave our ability to translate the sophisticated swing of today into scintillating rhythm.

I, John Kishler, having arrived at man's estate, do apportion among the diverse undergraduates of the school my profound reserve, humility, modesty, engaging personality, and all the other characteristics that mark me as the finest fellow in the senior class.

To Margie Harris do I, Barbie Moulton, will my extraordinary ability at chasing away the blues.

To the juniors as a whole we will our seats in the auditorium from which vantage point they can throw tomatoes at student speakers.

I, Bette Dickson, fully aware of the step I am taking, do bequeath that certain something to Elinor Reeves who certainly knows what to do with it.

I, Richard McCormack, leave to John Tracy my overwhelming physique with which he can awe the ladies of his acquaintance.

To Eleanor, do I, flirtatious Francie Randall, entrust the piano playing for chorus with hope that the keys don't stick.

I, "Red" Carroll, leave — with pleasure.

To Wallace Howard do I, David Riley, bequeath my technique with the fair sex in the hope that he may more perfectly accomplish the work that I have begun.

It is with deepest regret that I, Carl Johnson, leave my ability to write love sonnets to that coming young poet, Donald Waugh.

I, Margaret McNally, leave my charming disposition to Camille West — if she ever needs it.

With the stipulation that I am not to be forgotten, I, "Red" Carr, do sadly relinquish my enjoyment of the sweet things in life in the person of Pat Cole to Stan (what-a-man) Puffer.

I, Mardi Dickson, bequeath my propensity for travelling to Andover, Exeter, et al, to Joyce Beardsley who is already so capably following my footsteps.

To "Tex" Parry, do I, Emerson Brooks, will my fickleness, since I find that variety is the spice of life.

I, Margaret Hall, hereby yield to Edna McCormack my singular ability to make them cry, "make them laugh with me".

I, Richard Bugbee, sadly relinquish my collection of petty drawings to Franklin Evans who is also an art lover.

We, David Harris, Carl Johnson and Allen Abbott in remembrance of countless happy evenings spent with them, leave a vote of thanks to the girls of the sophomore class.

I, "Weezie" Wild, will my crowning glory upon Ann Jo Woodward, a sophomore possessing similar blonde beauty.

I, William Abbott, sometimes known as "William the Wise" or "Abbott the Brilliant" leave my quaint disposition to Gardner Jones.

With the assurance that she will continue to use it, I, Mildred Ghirardini, do entrust to Mildred Rogers my sturdy quality of dependability.

To Zoe ("Zowie") Tibbets, I, Betty Mitchell, do leave by bashfulness, to be used as a damper in case of over-exuberance.

Finally do we, the class lawyers, leave this job to any two suckers who think they can finish it in time next year.

Signed by the grace of God on this 3rd day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine.

The Hall of the Lower School

History of the Junior Class

Without a doubt, this Junior class is the most terrific that ever hit this ivy-class, hill-dwelling school of ours with hurricane force. Shy, modest flowers though we are, everyone should know that the Juniors hold up the rafters of the educational system with their superior talents and ability, both intellectual and athletic (rare combination). With Daniel Styges as President, Anthony DeTeso as Vice-President, and with Mildred Rogers and Barbara Hughes falling in behind as Secretary and Treasurer respectively, we've gone to town with a vengeance, and if any should say us nay, let him lend an ear to this tale.

Tony DeTeso and Pete Galuffo were our star contributions to the ever-essential football, while Stephen Holmes, Dynamite Puffer, and Emmons Ellis also tore around the field, mowing down acres of the enemy in the process.

Tony also did fine work on the first team in basketball, and Donald Waugh and Ted Hultgren showed great Varsity promise.

And then there's the track team, the orchestra, and the ping-pong club, all overflowing with Junior talent. (Whatta class, boys and girls, whatta class!) In the super-sensational literary document, "The Recorder," Bob Kitchen and Jim Weaver got some hot shots with their trusty cameras.

Oh, but carried away by our enthusiasm for male accomplishments, we nearly forget the lassies, the dear ones who haunt the halls with deep purple lipstick, and the athletic field with mucha da zip. Four out of five of the Varsity basketball berths were occupied by Juniors, and Rita Collins, a third class member was elected captain. The majority of the tennis maidens were of the same clan; and ditto for the hockey team, of which Carolyn Blanchard, capable goalie, is elected next year's captain.

January fourteenth was a memorable day in our lives, too, for it chalked up one more victory for the Juniors, this time dramatics. Bob Kitchin and Edna McCormick walked off with the leading roles, and Bert Smith a supporting one, in that great production, "Bab," much to the sorrowful envy of the Seniors, poor sinners. Bob, Edna, and Bert turned in dazzling, scintillating, and darned good performances to help up our honor in great style.

It is also an unusual fact that nearly all of our athletic stars are no strangers to that awe-inspiring and mysterious thing, the Honor Roll.

So shall we agree, my friends, that the class of 1940 is overflowing with future big league ball players, Davis cup champs, Pulitzer Prize winners, and Broadway belles and beaux? That makes it unanimous, for when bigger and better things are done, the Juniors'll do 'em.

History of the Sophomore Class

After the strangeness of the title of Sophomores had worn off and we had just become accustomed to navigating in the main building, like every good and anything-but-perfect class, we elected officers. The class decided that these were worthy of being presented with opportunities for attending the prom the following spring:

President .....	Ray Harris
Vice-President .....	Helen Carroll
Secretary .....	John Geoghegan
Treasurer .....	Brock Lynch

At least we have learned to respect authority a little more than in our Freshman year. That year we were never quite able to believe that they meant it when they said to report for seventh period, or to have the right change when paying for lunch at the cafeteria. Nor did the thoughts of getting used to regular examinations every five weeks lessen our bewilderment. This year we have gotten over our confusion and we snicker when we think that we were ever like the Freshmen now.

A few have earned their first and many others their second team varsity letters. As Freshmen we were well represented in sports, as Sophomores we are even better represented, as Juniors and Seniors we hope to become leaders.

BROCK LYNCH.

History of the Freshman Class

We entered Wadleigh with shaking knees, but after the first few bewildering days, we built up courage and are now the promising class of '42.

We feel we have made a very successful choice in electing as class officers: Courtney Crandall as President, Jacqueline Hammond as Vice-President, Cynthia Newton as Secretary, and Bob Cummins as Treasurer.

Freshman have taken part in two of three plays that have been presented by the Dramatic Society so far. Those participating were: Claire Tapley, Neal Clark, and Betty Pride (who, due to the lack of a cue had only a three-word part). Mary Lon Allen was in "The Ring and the Lock" which was presented the latter part of May.

A number of freshmen displayed their skill in the Vau-Devil Show. Ruth Horn, an experienced tapper, gave a delightful performance. Cosimo Simonetta and Guy Migliaccio with two others portrayed some mountain playboys very successfully. These four are future candidates for Major Bowes. Bert Callanan took part in "Flying High," a breath-taking acrobatic act, and Mr. Graves, our well-known history teacher, represented Clifton Fadiman in the "Information Please" act.

For the first time in the high school's history a Ping-Pong Club was started. But upon hearing the news that only a few freshmen could be admitted, it was decided to have a freshman tournament to decide who those few should be. Eddie Scully and Donald Spaulding were at the head of this, and after a table had been donated by David Holmes, the tournament began. The six winners were Eddie Scully, Courtney Crandall, Donald Spaulding, Bob Cummins, Claire Tapley, and Jane Wansker.

The freshman girls showed a keen interest in sports this year. A large number showed up for hockey. Those successful enough to make the squad were Charlotte Moran, Alice Davis, and Janet Doub. The hockey team won one of the class games. Two freshmen, Ann Downer and Alice Davis, were skillful enough to make the Varsity Basketball Team. Several girls have come out for baseball this spring, and those on the Varsity are Janet Doub and Ann Downer.

The boys' freshman football team won two of its games and the Heebie Jeebies consisted of about twenty-five freshmen practicing faithfully at Manchester field. There was no freshman basketball team, but two freshmen, Bert Callanan and Peter Provinzano, succeeded in making the Varsity team. There was neither a freshman baseball nor track team, but Leo Treacy and Stephen Connors were successful enough to make the varsity track team.

It is with regret that we shall leave the Wadleigh, for if we got lost there, where will we be at the Main Building?

The Class of 1942 marches on!

Red Cross

This year the Red Cross had a successful year. The officers were:

President .....	Bette Dickson
Vice-President .....	David Schneider
Secretary .....	Elinor Reeves
Treasurer .....	Charles Carr

We carried out numerous activities, among them the following:

We collected about $54.00 from the students for the flood and American Relief in the fall. We collected playing cards for the veterans in the Bedford Hospital. We packed fifty bags with Christmas gifts for the men in service in Panama. Food was contributed at Thanksgiving to be distributed among the needy families of Winchester. Christmas cards were sent to the veterans in Bedford. Pencil stubs were collected for the veterans in Bedford and perhaps our most successful venture of the year was our party for the officers and representatives, at which games were played and refreshments were served. The party ended the activities for the year.

The officers for 1939-1940 are: President, Stephen Holmes; Vice-President, Joanne Moffett; Secretary, Polly Kimball; Treasurer, Rita McCormack.

The Library Club

The Library Club of the Winchester High School made its debut in the Fall of 1938 with the purpose of broadening a knowledge of books and libraries by assisting in the routine work of our school library.

This club is a select one, limited to twenty-five members, all of whom must qualify on the basis of dependability, accuracy, school spirit, and passing grades in class work. Club members generally devote one period a week assisting in the library.

Very interesting and informative meetings, presided over by a president and secretary, are held once every month. On these occasions Miss Owen, our efficient librarian, explains some special phase of library work; books are talked over in an informal manner and games concerning books and book characters are played.

The club has done many interesting things this year, such as making an exhibit of "Teachers' Pets" during Book Week, having a Christmas party and a Spring picnic, and going to a Book Talk.

The President, Barbara Maxson, and the Secretary, Bernice Taber, and the other members are sure of a bright future for this new organization, with more trips to libraries and book talks in store.

Cheerleaders

No football team would be complete without its cheerleaders for inspiration, and neither would any school be complete without school spirit. Our colorful rah-rah girls and boys supply both these elements in Winchester. The cheering squad of 1939, under the very capable direction of Mr. Dana Cotton, and headed by Mildred Ghirardini, has been one of the best in many years. Certainly it rates well among noise-making, horn-blowing high schools. The members of the outfit were Mildred Ghirardini, Rita Collins, Berta Magnussen, Joanne Moffett, Jean Regan, Lee Clark, Muriel Fifield, Dominic Cimmina, Neal Clark, Dan Roop, Eddie Sculley, and Clifford Lindbergh.

Science Club

President .....	Dick Swanson
Vice-President .....	Dave Riley
Secretary .....	Dorothy Klyce
Treasurer .....	Bernhart Snyder

The Science Club was first founded about nine years ago when Dr. Alley came to Winchester. Since then it has been one of the flourishing clubs of the school.

Each year the club gains new supporters and it is open to everybody in school who is interested in any phase of science.

The members of the club participate in experiments, demonstrations, and assemblies which deal with any field in which they happen to be interested. Trips to various factories are taken, lectures, and movies are given.

This year, after a rather late start, the members of the club have enjoyed many movies, among them being pictures on sulphur, water, rubber, and bakelite. Demonstrations and lectures have been given on communication, the use of radio beams in flying, static electricity, and rubber; and the club has visited the Converse Rubber Company.

Thrift Association

In regard to the banking at the high school, 1938-1939 has been a successful year. Tuesdays have been very busy days, with all the rooms trying to maintain the high average which the high school has had since the formation of the banking system in November, 1924. The students have banked $5,887.58 up to April and $25,306.89 is now in the high school account for them.

Rooms 13 and 23 came through with perfect records for the year. Although the other rooms sometimes failed to maintain a high score, the average of the school in comparison with other high schools of the same size in the country is excellent. Our high school is on the Honor Roll for the high schools in the School Savings Banking System throughout the United States.

The officers for this year have been:

President .....	Donald Gray
Vice-President .....	David Schneider
Secretary .....	Barbara Hayden
Assistant Secretary .....	Sally Sharon

The woman who advised and helped us to succeed was that human speed demon, that likeable faculty advisor — Mrs. Stacy.

The Athletic Association

President .....	John O'Neil
Vice-President .....	Edward Kenney
Secretary .....	Grace Croughwell
Financial Secretary .....	Stephen Holmes

The Athletic Association with its democratically elected officers and executive board started the season of 1938-39 with a competitive membership drive which proved very successful, both financially and for the enlargement of membership.

The fall season started with football and hockey, both teams being Middlesex champions and receiving pendants as a reward. The season ended with a fall sports dance and the annual banquet in which Myrtle Goodhue and Douglas Graham were awarded the Wheeler-Mansfield cups.

The winter season sped by with basketball in full swing, two afternoon dances, one evening dance, and an award assembly rounding out the cold weather schedule.

Upon the arrival of spring the Seventh Annual Vandeville Show appeared and netted the A. A. $275.25. Baseball for both boys and girls got under way and tennis was started. The election of next year's officers took place and an executive board was elected.

L' Alliance Francaise

The French spirit started off with a bang this year with about 30 eager and enthusiastic third year students joining the ranks of the ever-popular L'Alliance Francaise, under the capable direction of Miss Mackedon.

The first meeting was held with the purpose of choosing the officers for the ensuing club year. The following were elected:

President .....	Louise Wild
Vice-President .....	Frances Randall
Secretary .....	Jean Clement
Treasurer .....	Philip Quinn

The next meeting was devoted to singing and playing games in French. Vice-President Randall did an excellent job in conducting this meeting.

Then the Christmas party — with eats! But before the hungry lines formed, there was much entertainment. Jane Grimes was the efficient chairman on this committee. French games of various kinds were enjoyed. The music committee, under the direction of Frances Randall, provided us with Christmas carols, sung in French. Virginia Chapin, Richard Swanson, and James Weaver presented "Le Soleil Levant", each one giving an excellent performance. The climax was reached when jolly Pere Noel — in the personage of David Burnham — appeared and presented each member with a gift.

So ends the third year of L'Alliance Francaise. We hope that the classes following us will have equally enjoyable memories.

Dramatic Society

This has been a big year in the annals of the Dramatic Society. It has put on not one but four plays, each played, directed, and produced by members under the helpful supervision of Miss Bailey. The Society was divided into four groups, each headed by a director and producing one play. The entire Society is to vote for the play they think was best produced, and the winning group earns a trip to a play in Boston. The meetings have been informal, ably led by President Mildred Rogers, Vice-President Emmons Ellis, Secretary Dolly Greene, and Treasurer Lee Clark.

The first play directed by Margaret Hall was "No Smoking", presented with the following in the cast: James Weaver, Margaret Greene, Barbara Hughes, Robert Twombly, and Robert Conlon.

The second play, "D 298" was directed by Shirley Wood. Proctor Jones, Claire Tapley, Neil Clark, and Zoe Tibbetts were in the cast.

The third play, "Sauce for the Gosling" was directed by Mildred Rogers with the following in the cast: Louise Millican, Charles Morrill, Samuel Crabtree, Jane Doty, Charlotte Benson, Betty Pride, and Peter Hickey.

"The Ring and the Lock" is the fourth play. Lee Clark directed it and Charlotte Hall, Emmons Ellis, Edna McCormick, Brock Lynch, Leila Jane Smith, Mary Lou Allen, June Hutchins, and Dolly Greene were in the cast.

Orchestra

The school year 1938-39 has been a big year and a busy year for the Winchester High School Orchestra. It has steadily improved under the direction of Mr. Delzell. This year it played at the Junior-Senior Class Play, at Graduation, and has held a musical assembly.

Violins: Jean Drake, Priscilla Tapley, Nancy Nickerson, Barbara Hughes, Pasquale Ferraina, Mary Virginia Loftus, Dolly Greene, Bessie Fogg, Anne Murray, Ruth O'Connell, Robert Costello, Jeanine Beranger.

Cello: Sheila Carr, Betty-Anne Elliot, Louise Millican.

Trumpets: Joseph Talone, Daniel Roop, Quentin Skene.

Clarinets: James Weaver, Leonard Erickson, William Dowden.

Percussion: Francis Fisher, Hugh O'Doherty.

Piano: Joseph Becker, Idella Tapley.

Junior-Senior Class Play

Due to the able coaching, experience and talent of the actors, this year's Junior-Senior class play was both a dramatic and a financial success. The capable cast coached by Mr. Meinke presented a very fine performance of the well known comedy, "Bab" by Mary Roberts Rinehart, telling the difficulties of a flippant school girl in straightening out her sister's love affairs.

The Recorder

For the first time in many years the school publication this year took the form of a magazine. Its name, the Recorder, was taken from one of our high school's former publications.

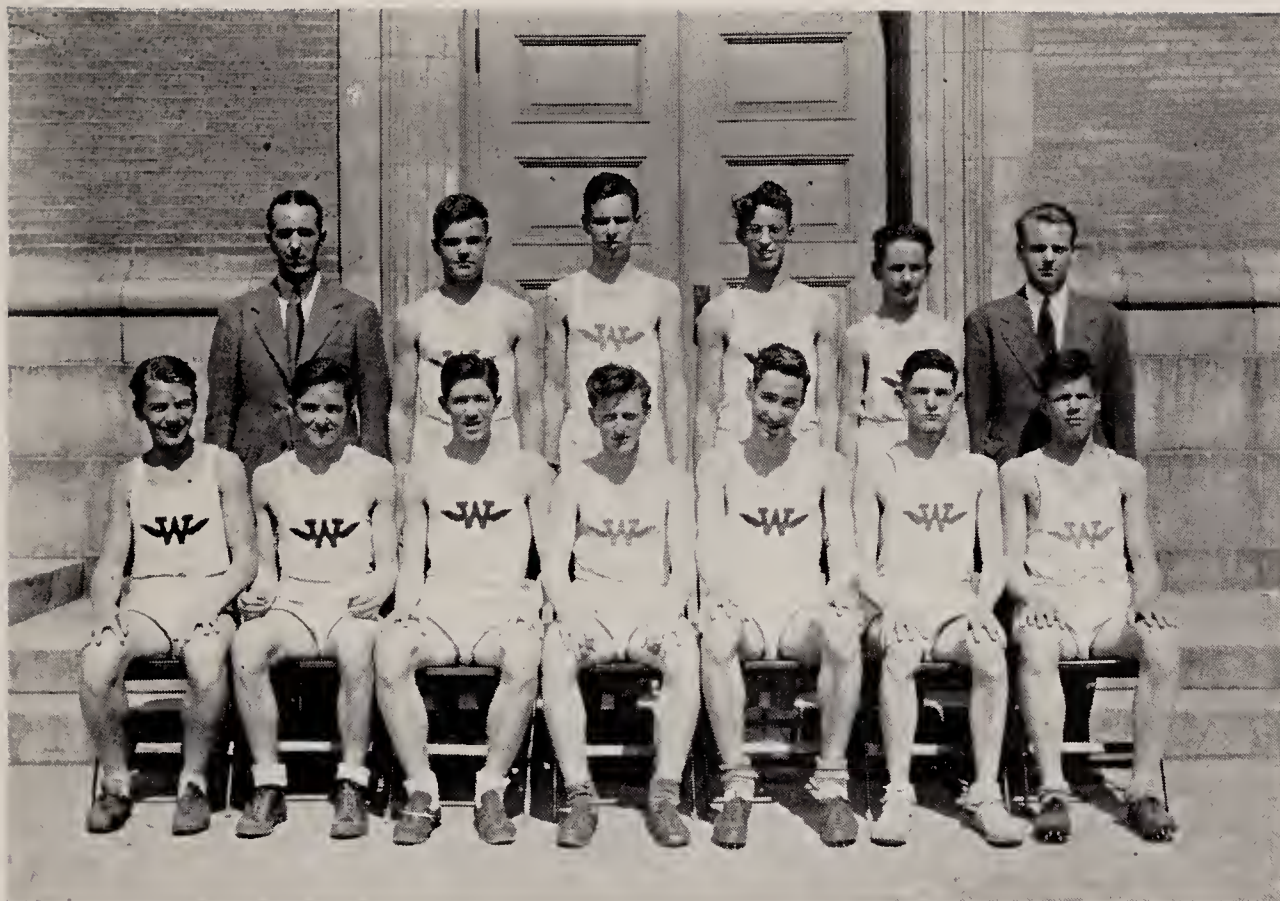

With Mr. Keeney and Miss Hudelson as faculty supervisors, the Recorder staff brought out its first issue of the magazine on February 15. The magazine contained a variety of reading matter including essays, short stories, sports, humor, personals, snapshots, and cartoons. The magazine was sold for 15c per copy and sales records exceeded all expectations.

Although the greater part of the staff was comprised of seniors, many capable underclassmen contributed valuable aid in presenting to the school a magazine which has great future possibilities, and we are sure that it is being left in capable hands that will carry it on and make the Recorder a school tradition.

Cross Country

The cross country team, under the guidance of Coach John Stevens, had a fairly successful season. The team won four out of seven dual meets. In the six-cornered league meet held at Stoneham, Winchester placed second to Melrose, the state champions.

Danny Dineen, the leading runner, broke the course record in the Beverly meet and also broke the Reading course record. In the six-cornered meet Danny led the team home and placed second in the meet. The other outstanding runners and those who received letters were Captain John MacPartlin, Joseph Connolly, Fred Donahue, and Donald Gray. The team was well balanced. In the Reading meet, the team made a perfect score by annexing the first five places.

The results of the seven dual meets were:

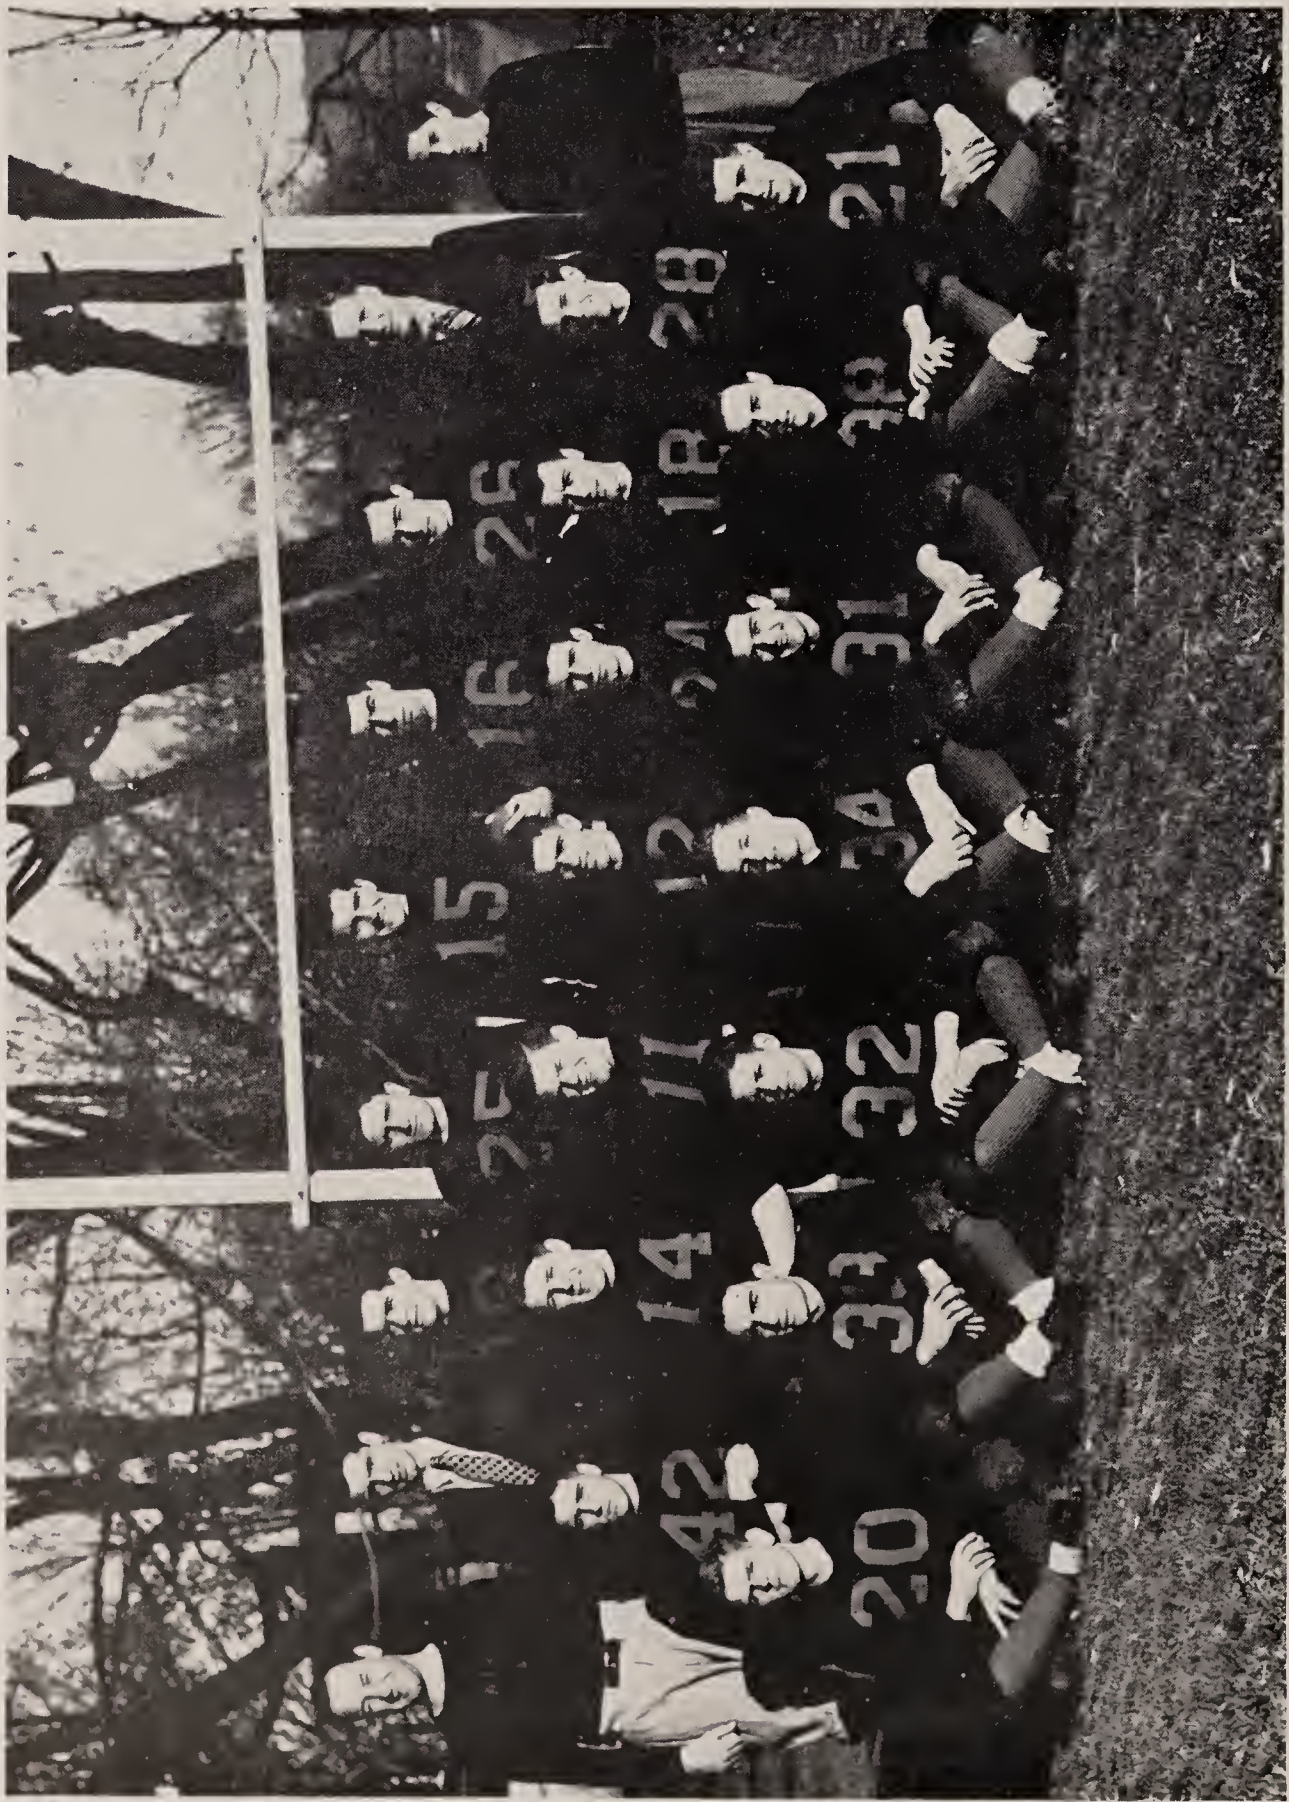

*Winchester .....	30	—	Beverly .....	27
*Winchester .....	23	—	Stoneham .....	32
*Winchester .....	24	—	Woburn .....	33
*Winchester .....	28	—	Woburn .....	27
Winchester .....	23	—	Wakefield .....	33
Winchester .....	34	—	Melrose .....	21
Winchester .....	15	—	Reading .....	40

The lowest score is the winner. * at Winchester.

The results of the six-cornered meet are:

1—Melrose, 29; 2—Winchester, 62; 3—Woburn, 76; 4—Beverly, 79;
5—Wakefield, 130; 6—Stoneham, 139.

Football

The Winchester High School Football Team for the sixth consecutive time has captured the championship of the Middlesex League. This year the crown was held jointly with Maynard, both teams winning four of the five scheduled league games. Winchester and Maynard played to a scoreless tie for the title.

The first game of the 1938 season was played with Arlington at the Shore Road Athletic Field. The opponents were big and powerful, while Winchester was small and appeared lacking in sufficient practice. The final score was 27-0.

Traveling to Marblehead, the locals played against a fast and tricky team. Marblehead tallied three touchdowns to Winchester's one. Marblehead won by a 19-6 score.

The next encounter was with Concord, the first league game of the season. The squad was in top form throughout the contest even with many substitutes playing. The resulting score was 27-0.

In the next meet, Stoneham used a stubborn defense; the locals refused to be halted however, and scored twice while the opponents tallied once. Passing played an important part in this match that ended with a 12-7 victory.

At Belmont, the locals played really good football. Offensively the team made steady gains through a comparatively heavy line and defensively smothered every running play of the Belmontians. Result? Ours by 20-0.

In a non-league encounter, the locals came from behind to defeat Punchard High by a 12-6 score.

For the next game, Winchester journeyed to Maynard to decide which team was tops in the Middlesex League—both were undefeated in league competition. The entire game was a battle between two fighting little elevens, both playing well and both showing their best football. All in all, however, the Winchester line decidedly outplayed their larger foes. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

In the next game, Lexington proved very stubborn and Winchester had a hard time getting started. In the second half, Lexington weakened and Winchester went on to win 13-0.

On Armistice day, Wellesley was the guest football team. Winchester had little trouble winning with a final score of 19-0.

The last match of the season was played at Woburn on Thanksgiving Day morning. A much improved Woburn team held the locals to one touchdown. Winchester, however, played a far better game than the score represents.

The team won 7, lost 2, and tied 1 which is a good record.

The lettermen on the squad were: (Capt.) Doug Graham; Manager, Bernhart Snyder; Paul Lentine, Franny Murray, Hartie Horie, Richie McCormack, Joe Ficociello, John Dello Svetura, Allen Abbott, Thomas Millyan, John O'Neil, Pete Galuffo, Tony DeTeso, Steve Holmes, Dan Stygles, Barney Vespucci, Byron Horie, Mike Gilberti, Frank Marabella, and John Geoghogan.

Throughout the season Winchester played hard and smart football under the able guidance of Coach George N. Lauer; Ed Bartlett assisted Coach Lauer and handled the second team, which won four, lost one, and tied two games.

At the A. A. Banquet after the season, Pete Galuffo and Tony DeTeso were elected Co-Captains for the next season.

Field Hockey

The old saying, "all that's good must come to an end," certainly holds true with our Hockey Team. The girls played a schedule of seven games being neither defeated nor scored upon and for this unusually fine record, the A. A. awarded to each member of the Varsity squad a pendant with the school seal engraved upon it.

First team letters were awarded to the following: (Capt.) "Sis" Goodhue, Esther Colucci, Marjorie Manzie, Bette Dickson, Helen Carroll, Barbara Hayden, Mildred Rogers, Margaret Greene, Rita Collins, Ruth Ann Merrow, Jean Clement, Carolyn Blanchard, and Margaret McNally.

This article would not be complete without a few remarks about the players themselves. The team would not have reached its present high-ranking position had it not been for our capable captain, "Sis" Goodhue. Nor would its success have been achieved but for the high scorers: of the 19 goals made during the season, the highest honors go to Marjorie Manzie with a total of 8; Bette Dickson with 5; Mildred Rogers with 3; Esther Colucci with 2; and Helen Carroll with 1.

At the close of the season Carolyn Blanchard was elected as next year's captain, and we know her ability and leadership will keep Winchester on the top.

(Capt.) "Chris" Flaherty, Anna Errico, Rose Gaudioso, "Dot" McManus, Miriam Nash, "Dolly" Greene, Janet Hayward, "Barbie" Hughes, Ruth Olmstead, and Sally Sharon received second team letters. Barbara Moulton was acting Manager, and Marjorie Clarke, First Assistant.

Girls' Baseball

Neither wintry days nor boys' baseball games kept an enthusiastic group of girls from spending several afternoons a week practicing baseball on Manchester Field.

Great progress was shown under the captainship of a sophomore, Joyce Maxson, whose position was catcher, and the outside schools obtained very few hits from our wonderful little pitcher, Ann Downer. Ann is only a freshman, so we are looking forward to her for at least three more years. Credit must also be given to Mary Marchesi who pitched a few of the games.

Janet Hayward and Janet Doub were our only home-runners of the season, although several of the other girls had a good batting average, and Rita Collins, first baseman, and Sally Sharon, third baseman, were also credited with several good hits and catches.

Our girls were noted for their excellent sportsmanship, showing courtesy and generosity to their opponents, namely: Medford, Cambridge Latin, Arlington, and Lexington.

We hope next year's team will have a more successful season, for they have good material to work with, as only two of the varsity squad will be leaving us; these two are known as the "twins" of the team, — when one strikes out or hits, the other follows suit, Marjorie Manzie and Margaret McNally. Mildred Ghirardini, who was elected as the most dependable girl of the senior class, held her vote when it came to managing the Girls' Baseball Team of 1939, and Anne Errico acted as her assistant manager.

BOYS' BASKETBALL SQUAD

Basketball

Although Winchester finished in third position in the Middlesex League race, they had a successful season. The team won all home games and ten out of the fifteen played. In several matches, Winchester lost by a close margin and as a whole the team was well balanced and co-ordinated. With a little luck the title might have been ours.

Winchester was captained by Carl Johnson, who was also high scorer, Carl was ably backed up by Doug Graham, Piggy DeTeso, Byron Horie, Ed Kenney, Babe Errico, Charlie Carr, and John O'Neil.

The second team was coached by Dick Grovesnor and captained by Frank Marabella. The J. V. record was not impressive, but many games were lost by close scores, and the boys had the spirit which promises future success.

The schedule was as follows:

Winchester .....	30	—	Alumni .....	24
Winchester .....	27	—	Stoneham .....	15
Winchester .....	25	—	Wakefield .....	30
Winchester .....	24	—	Lexington .....	18

Winchester .....	24	—	Reading .....	16
Winchester .....	23	—	Woburn .....	13

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Girls' Basketball

The Girls' Basketball Team had an outstanding season, losing only one game out of seven.

The first game scheduled was with the Alumnæ, the elder girls being the victors. Neither Captain Rita Collins nor her team were discouraged and the following week ventured to Arlington. Winchester won with a score of 18 to 16.

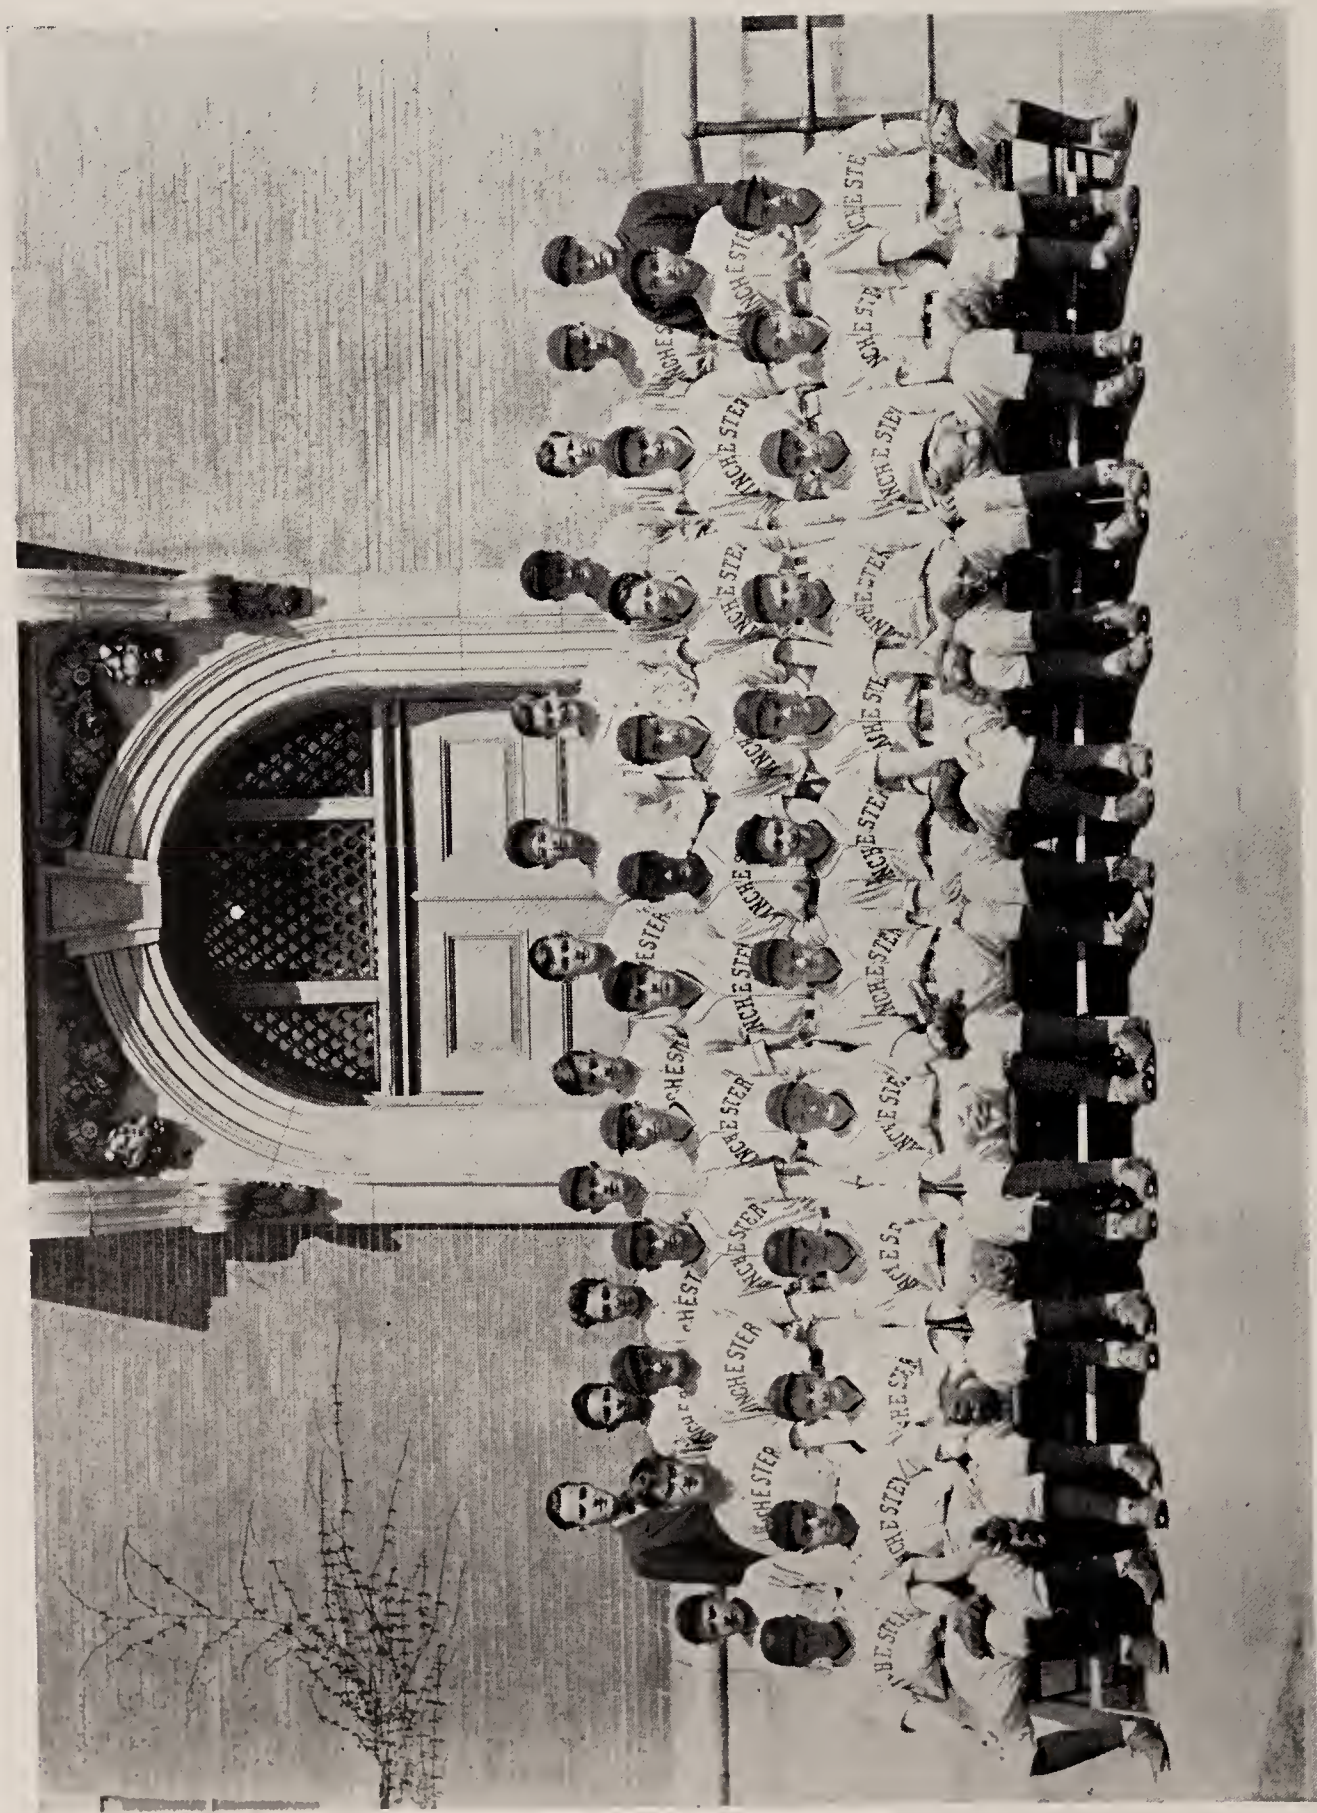

On February 25, the team met Belmont and with excellent passwork and speed the girls won another victory, 26 to 18. A few days later the girls lost their only game of the season to Watertown. The score being, (we'd rather not mention it).

After a week of hard and earnest practice, the girls showed their real fighting spirit with Lexington by coming forth with a score of 31 to 14 and they emerged from the last game with a 27 to 19 victory over Melrose.

The team will long remember the joyfñl bus rides to and from the games — never a minute passed by that the girls were not singing or cheering, and on several of these occasions we found that the girls brought a large assortment of refreshments.

Varsity letters were awarded to (Capt.) Rita Collins, Myrtle Goodhue, Louise Wild, Joyce Maxon, Mildred Rogers, Rose Gaudioso., Priscilla Tapley, and Manager, Lee Clark.

The second team was not so successful. Of their six games, they won 3 and lost 3, winning from Lexington, Belmont, and Watertown and losing to the Alumnæ, Arlington, and Melrose. The girls who received second team letters were (Capt.) "Barbie" Hughes, "Chris" Flaherty, "Bette" Dickson, Gladys Fifield, Helen Carroll, Elinor Reeves, Lois Ladd, and Manager Barbara Maxson.

BASEBALL SQUAD

Baseball

Enthusiasm toward baseball was very high this year as shown by the number of candidates that reported to Coach Lauer for the first practice sessions. With the return of several first team veterans from last year, prospects were very good. Winchester won five straight games before falling victim to Maynard.

Some excellent hitting has been done by Carr, DeTeso, Ramsdell, and Kenney. DeMinico, Johnson, Thoman, Farrell, Peter Provinzano, and David Harris comprise the pitching staff.

The first string lineup has been "Piggy" DeTeso, catcher; Joe Ciarcia, first base; Charlie Carr, second base; Eddie Kenney (Captain), shortstop; Leonard Rallo, third base; Earl Goldsmith, left field; Paul Connors, center field; Eben Ramsdell, right field; Gainey, T. Connors, Murdock, Geoghegan, McCormack, Stygles, and O'Neil, utility men.

At the time we go to press, Winchester is sharing top place honors with Maynard. Both teams have lost two games in league competition. The team has been ably managed by Martin Underwood.

The second team, composed mostly of freshmen and sophomores and escorted to games by Mr. Stevens, has made an impressive showing by beating the Stoneham and Lexington second teams, five to four and seven to nothing.

Winchester .....	13	—	Lexington .....	11
Winchester .....	14	—	Concord .....	2
Winchester .....	14	—	Reading .....	4
Winchester .....	11	—	Stoneham .....	4
Winchester .....	7	—	Belmont .....	1
Winchester .....	2	—	Maynard .....	7
Winchester .....	13	—	Woburn .....	11
Winchester .....	1	—	Maynard .....	3
Winchester .....	18	—	Lexington .....	8

Track

The results of the 1939 Track Team were very satisfying. Competing against much stronger teams the Winchester cinder men made a good record. The team was coached by Jim Shaw, whose friendly personality was welcomed by all. Franny Murray was a consistent scorer in the dashes, Captain Sam Pilkington in the quarter-mile and broad jump, Joe Connolly in the half-mile, Fred Donahue in the mile, Spence Carey in the shot put, and Phil Twombly in the high jump.

The leading tracksters are as follows: 100-yard dash — Franny Murray, Bruce Underwood, John Tracy, John Parlett; 220-yard dash — Franny Murray, Bruce Underwood, John Tracy, John Parlett; Quarter-mile — Captain Sam Pilkington, Steve Holmes, John MacPartlin, Joe Butler; Half-mile — Joe Connolly, Bill Palson, John Spanlding, Peter Hickey, Dick Drew; Mile — Fred Donahue, Dan Dineen, John MacPartlin, George Hinekins, Leo Tracy; Shot Put — Spence Carey, Pete Galuffo, Gray Twombly; High Jump — Phil Twombly, Bruce Underwood, Steve Holmes; Broad Jump — Sam Pilkington, Steve Holmes, Bruce Underwood.

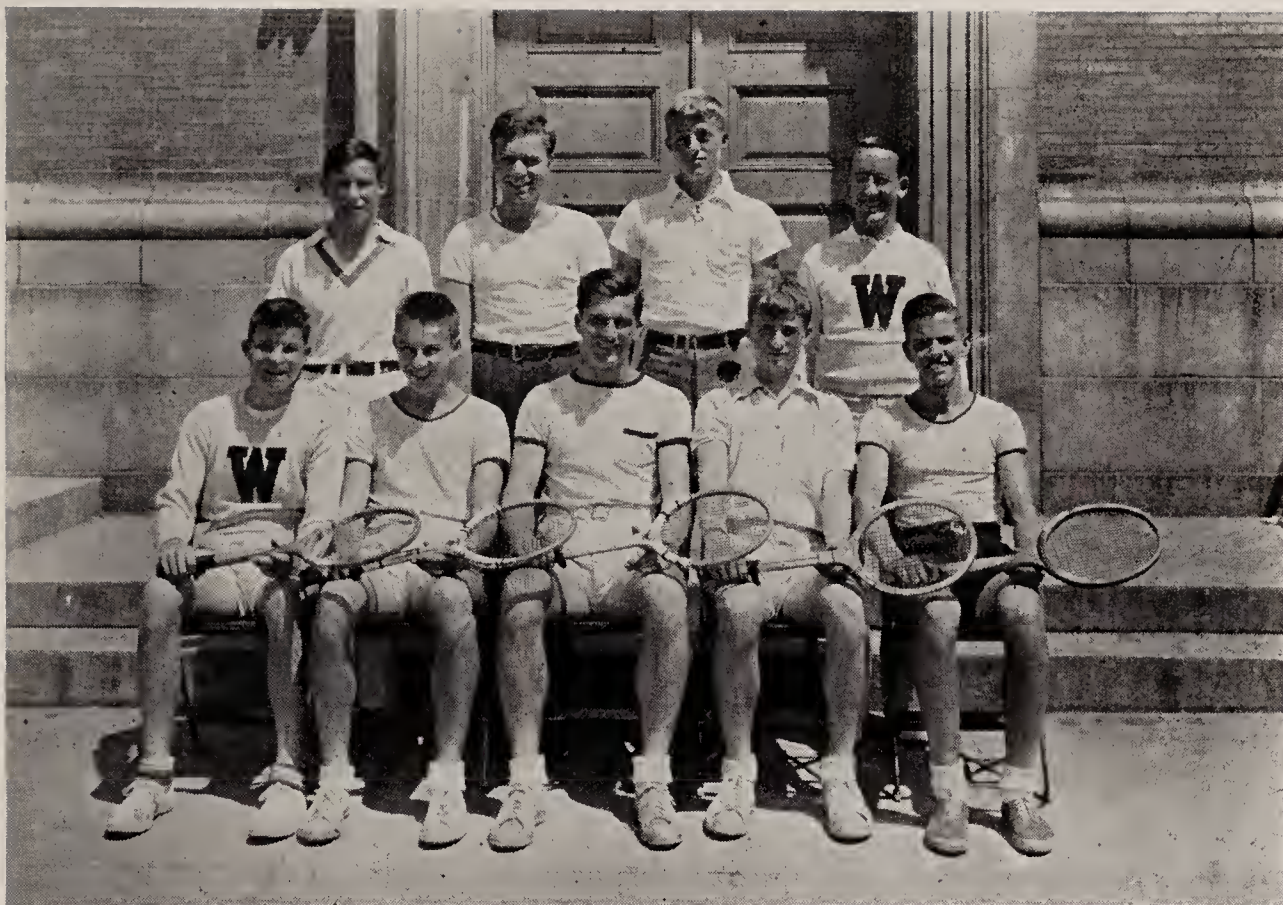

John Kishler, Manager, and his assistant, Wallace Howard were a fine help to Coach Shaw and the runners.

The following are the results of the first meets:

Winchester .....	55	—	Concord .....	22
Winchester .....	25	—	Lexington .....	52
Winchester .....	30	—	Woburn .....	47
Winchester .....	18	—	Arlington .....	49

Winchester placed fifth in the Belmont Interscholastics. Winchester won by default in the meet with Woburn.

Boys' Tennis

This year's Tennis team is composed of ten players whose names according to rank are as follows: Doug Graham, captain, Dick Bugbee, Lane McGovern, John Penniman, James Coon, David Riley, Elbert Smith, Charles Blanchard, Robert Kitchin, and Francis Fisher. Some excellent tennis has been played by Graham, Bugbee, and McGovern, while the double pairs also have accounted for themselves well.

This spring Winchester was the host for the annual Massachusetts Inter-scholastic Tennis Tournament, which took place at the Palmer Street Court. The boys played well in these and all their matches and the season ended on the usual successful note.

The results of the matches were:

Winchester .....	8	—	Haverhill .....	1
Winchester .....	5	—	Boston Latin .....	2
Winchester .....	8	—	Andover .....	1
Winchester .....	6	—	Milton .....	3

Girls' Tennis

Captained by the veteran player, Lois Ladd, the tennis team enjoyed its usual outstanding season, defeating, to date, its opponents with little difficulty. On May 19th, a tennis playday was held at the Palmer Street courts, at which time Milton, Windsor, Buckingham, Melrose, Malden, and Winchester participated.

One result of these matches which were played, not solely to win but for the fun of the sport, was 43 games for Winchester to 38 for Windsor, our closest rival.

Captain Ladd, Frances Keyes and Priscilla Tapley played brilliant tennis throughout the season, while the doubles teams of Polly Kimball and Jean Drake and Margaret Greene and Dolly Greene were exceptionally steady also.
